

We Care...

Truckers Final Mile, a NON-Profit Organization

In the towing industry, we have found ourselves in this situation where an over the road trucker has been in a serious accident and the family is miles away. We hope that the trucking company will be compassionate to help the driver and its family, but in some cases, they are an owner operator and they have no one to help them or their family. We find ourselves in this situation with limited resources how we can help. We may do small gestures as gathering the belonging for the family or try to provide information to help direct them in the best way we can. Here is just one example of an organization that may help a driver and their family, if faced with a crisis, the organization is called; Truckers Final Mile

Truckers Final Mile is a NON-profit organization that has one goal; focus on reuniting the trucker's families in time of crisis. The founder, Robert Palm, has been in the trucking industry for many years. Robert has also been on our side of trucking, he was a tow truck operator early in his career and seen the results of a crash and how a trucker and family are impacted when faced with crisis, that is where Robert decided he needed to help and started his organization to help his fellow trucker and to show how the trucking industry has compassion. His dedication to the truckers has been widely recognized and shared on social media. Please keep share this information to help this organization.
